- B. Also, loss is defined as the total and permanent functional disablement of any injured organ or limb.
- C. Whenever the Insured suffers two or more losses specified in the table contained herein, the total payment amount may not exceed 100% of the sum Insured under this coverage.
- D. Compensation paid for loss of fingers will be deducted from any payment made for the loss of the corresponding hand or foot.
- E. If the loss payment for dismemberment is lower than 100% of the sum insured, the paid amount will be deducted from the insured amount; and in cases in which death or disability occurs as stipulated by this insurance, compensation will be paid for the remaining amount.

The table contained herein applies for right-handed persons. If the insured is left-handed, the same percentages shall be applied in reverse.

In order for this protection to be applicable, it must be purchased and be stated on the policy schedule.

5. ELIGIBILITY AGE LIMITS

- Minimum eligibility age: 0 years of age
- Maximum eligibility age: 68 years and 364 days of age
- Maximum coverage age: 69 years and 364 days of age

There will be no insurable risk in cases in which the maximum eligibility age is exceeded and, consequently, there will be no insurance contract. Consequently, Positiva shall return any and all payments received under such conditions. Events occurring under these circumstances shall not be recognized by this insurer.

6. MAXIMUM COMPANY LIABILITY

Compensations due to "accidental death", "Partial or Total Dismemberment", and "Homicide" coverages are not collectively cumulative and payment of 100% of the sum insured shall terminate the insurance policy automatically.

In cases where the paid amount for "Accidental Disability or Dismemberment" is lower than 100% of the insured amount, Positiva shall deduct the paid percentage for each protection, and in case of a new claim, Positiva shall only be liable to pay the difference with the sum insured.

If the insured, during the policy period, suffers several covered losses or accidental dismemberments, payments shall be calculated by adding them up, and in no case shall they exceed the sum insured.

7. PREMIUM PAYMENT

According to the Código de Comercio (Commercial Code), the policyholder is obligated to pay the policy premium unless otherwise stated on the policy schedule and/or in the provisions of the insurance contract.

8. IMPRECISE OR RELUCTANT STATEMENTS

The policyholder and all individual insureds are under the obligation to sincerely declare the events or circumstances surrounding the state of the risk as well as any imprecision or reluctance surrounding the events or circumstances that, if previously known by POSITIVA, would have prevented it from entering the contract or stipulating more costly conditions, all of which make the insurance contract relatively null.

If this statement is not made pursuant to any given questionnaire, any misstatement or reluctance shall produce the same effect as if the policyholder or the insured had willingly concealed facts, events or circumstances implying the objective aggravation of the state of the risk.

If misstatements, imprecisions or reluctances arise from an error made by the policyholder or by the individual insured, the contract shall not be null; however, POSITIVA will only be obligated to pay a percentage of the insured services equivalent to the relation between the premium stipulated on the contract and the adequate premium to the true state of the risk, except whenever provisions detailed in article 1160 of the Código de Comercio (Commercial Code) apply.

The aforementioned penalties are not applicable if POSITIVA, prior to entering into the contract, has known or should have known, the events or circumstances surrounding the statement faults, or if, once having entered into the contract, attempts to remedy them or accepts them expressly or tacitly.

9. TERMINATION OF CONTRACT

- Coverage of this policy shall end in the following cases:
- Upon termination of the policy period.
- Failure to pay the premium within the term stated on the policy schedule, without a formal requirement from POSITIVA.
- When the insured or the policyholder revoke in writing their insurance contract.
- Policy coverage will end when POSITIVA has paid 100% of the sum insured stated on the policy schedule, as compensation for one of the following protections: accidental death, homicide, accidental disability and/or accidental dismemberment.
- If the compensation for dismemberment is less than 100% of the insured amount, the compensation amount shall be deducted from the insured amount, and in the event of accidental death or disability under the conditions stipulated in this insurance, compensation shall be paid with the remaining value.
- For each individual insured when they reach the age of 69 years and 364 days.

10. MODIFICATIONS OF RISK STATUS

Individual policyholders and insureds shall notify POSITIVA of any changes in their occupations, sports, or geographic location which occurs after inception of the policy period.

These notifications shall be communicated ten (10) days prior to the changes in risk status. POSITIVA may revoke the contract or demand any relevant premium readjustments.

Failure to notify in a timely manner shall produce the termination of the coverage, but only actions taken in bad faith by the policyholder or the insured shall give POSITIVA the right to withhold any unpaid premiums.

11. OBLIGATIONS IN CASES OF DAMAGE

Policyholders, insured and insureds shall notify POSITIVA of any occurred losses no later than three working (3) days after the date when such losses are known or should have been known.
